COLUMBIANS LAUD CONCERTS

Coming Phi Mu Alpha Season is Expected to Exceed Others.

On the fourth day of the season ticket sale for the Phi Mu Alpha concerts to be given in the University Auditorium, University leaders have expressed the opinion that the coming concert season will be the best ever given in Columbia.

"The excellent work that Phi Mu Alpha is doing for the University community in bringing to Columbia musical artists and musical organizations of international reputation justifies my request that the attention of University classes be called to the concert series," said President J. C. Jones, who last Friday sent a circular letter to all members of the faculty urging them to give support to the series.

Dean F. M. Tisdell, of the College of Arts and Science, said he always made it a point to attend the concerts, and that he hoped everyone would take advantage of the opportunity now offered to obtain their tickets.

That every music lover in Columbia ought to be happy over the concert series arranged for this year is the opinion of Miss Eva Johnston, dean of women of the University. "When I realize that it would cost me twice the price of a season ticket to go to St. Louis to hear one of the symphony concerts, it is hard to believe that Phi Mu Alpha can give us four symphony concerts and the wonderful Ukrainian Chorus at so reasonable a price."

Robert L. Hill, secretary of the Commercial Club, comments the work of Phi Mu Alpha and says there should be such a demand for season tickets that it would be impossible to supply all.

"Music, the universal language," said Dean Walter Williams of the School of Journalism, "should be a language which all appreciate, speak and understand. Phi Mu Alpha presents music at its best."

Bringing people into contact with the work of the great musical artists is the thing to be commended in the coming concert series, according to Dean Lyle Loeb of the School of Business and Public Administration. "The most interestingly low when the character of the advantage offered is taken into consideration."
